Dear Jack,

Belatedly, I want to thank you for the consultation you did with us when we were writing the Financial Reform bill. While we, of course, did not get everything into the bill that I wanted, I believe we have a piece of legislation finally enacted that will go a long way towards preventing the kind of problems we suffered from recently, and your input and expertise was very helpful. Your combined substantive knowledge, with your understanding of the legislative process, made you a valuable contributor. And the fact that I knew I could rely completely on the independence from any influence of the advice you gave us was very important.

Thank you for your contributions.

BARNEY FRANK
